

Context : The player is tasked with investigating a mining colony on the barren moon of Thesi IV. Recent reports show that the colony suddenly stopped all communications to the nearby Command Post. A computer terminal in the mine's Supervisor's office can provide some clues as to what happened.

Resupply shipment received from Command.

No update from medic.

Nothing else to report.

[EDIT] 2 casualties. Succumbed to head injuries.

Status of the two from yesterday:

Miner.JJ - Dead. Vitals lost 3 hours after sudden collapse. Unknown cause of death, no signs of outside harm.

Miner.LO - Dead. Same thing, timing also lines up.

This is not coincidental. I don't have the time nor equipment to autopsy them but I am certain that these deaths and the ones from two days back are no coincidence. It's not safe here and it's not the dark that's doing this to us. You better be letting Observation know.

Reminder to all workers that you are required to wear your company provided protection suits and bring plenty of light when working in un-lit areas. We lost 5 workers this week due to negligence and as such they have lost all insurance benefits for their families. Your shift managers have been authorized to terminate any employees they believe are unwilling to showcase basic workplace procedures. Prolonged breach of workplace procedures can result in more than just the culprit being punished, thus you are advised to immediately report anyone you suspect may be negligent when on a shift.

I would also personally like to remind everyone here that we are in a privileged position as the select few miners of Site 15 and owe it to the company to provide professional quality service as expected.

Thank you.
